According to the literature 5922the influence of peer pressure plays a significant role in the adoption of these risk behaviors, which can occur in various different places where young people socialize, such as private condominiums, sports clubs, summer camps and also in their own homes, where the techniques are practiced alone Younger children in pre-school or primary school start with simple apneal behaviors, whereas older children and adolescents engage in more dangerous fainting techniques such as compression of the carotid arteries or the rib cage. The teenage party will be held at the school in Sabinillas and has a Wild West theme including a fancy dress party.
